Arms and defence

POSITION STATEMENT
DANSE BANK

1. Introduction

Danske Bank acknowledges the right of nations to use legitimate weapons for national self-defence and legitimate national security purposes as set forth in the Charter of the United Nations. We accept that various types of weapons are necessary for achieving internationally accepted goals such as peacekeeping missions.

The arms and defence industry is complex, however, and we acknowledge that the industry entails risks related to various types of weapons and their potential use where international humanitarian law is violated or used for other purposes than national security and self-defence. We must address these risks in our business activities when providing financial services to the industry.

2. Our approach

Danske Bank does not conduct business with a company if verified information exists that the company directly or through its supplies of bespoke components, systems or services is involved in the production of illegal weapons, such as anti-personnel mines, cluster munitions, and biological and chemical weapons. This also includes companies that are involved in the stockpiling, transfer or use of these weapons.

While the above-mentioned weapons are considered illegal according to international law, nuclear weapons, within the Non Proliferation Treaty are legal. Nevertheless, a potential use of nuclear weapons could have indiscriminate effects and could be a violation of human rights. As a result, Danske Bank has a set of standards for companies that are involved in activities relating to nuclear weapons within the Non Proliferation Treaty. Therefore, Danske Bank will not invest in or grant credits to companies involved in any activity related to nuclear weapons outside the Non Proliferation Treaty. For those companies engaged in activities within the Non Proliferation Treaty, Danske Bank will only invest in or grant credit to new customers if their revenue from military business is less than 5% of total revenue.

In regards to Danske Bank’s own funds, our Treasury department refrains from investing in companies active in the arms and defence industry.
To ensure that we manage our investments, business activities and lending associated with ESG risks based on the international principles we endorse, we have implemented processes that have a risk-based approach and that are structured around two phases: 1) Screening and ESG risk analysis and 2) Dialogue and engagement. We also regularly monitor and assess our efforts in order to meet the needs and expectations of our customers and stakeholders in the best possible manner.

Screening and ESG risk analysis
- When investing in the arms and defence industry, we conduct an ESG screening and risk analysis of the portfolio companies in collaboration with our screening and research partners to ensure that their conduct is in accordance with our Sustainable Investment Policy and the international principles we endorse.
- When lending and renewing credit to the arms and defence industry, we conduct an ESG assessment in order to ensure that our customers’ conduct is in accordance with our Credit Policy, Societal Impact & Sustainability Policy and the international principles we endorse.

Dialogue and engagement
- We engage in a dialogue with the companies we invest in when issues of concern have been identified. The dialogue serves to verify whether there is any possible involvement in illegal or controversial arms manufacturing. If involvement is verified, we will refrain from investing in the company.
- If there are allegations of possible breaches of international principles, identified ESG issues or if the customer is not compliant with our Credit Policy or our Societal Impact & Sustainability Policy, we initiate a dialogue in order to determine a solution together with the customer. The aim is to clarify the circumstances, to recommend that they follow a set of international standards and principles [as set forth in section 4], and to determine whether the company plans to change its behaviour.
- We prefer to engage with the companies and encourage the development of higher standards of responsibility instead of terminating the credit relationship. However, if a company does not take any corrective measures, we will exclude it whenever possible and in a controlled process.

Whenever relevant, we expect the companies we lend to and invest in to operate in accordance with the following internationally recognised agreements and framework:

- UN Global Compact
- OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises
- UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights
- The Universal Declaration of Human Rights
- The ILO Declaration of Fundamental Principles of Rights at Work

Industry-specific
To ensure that non-controversial arms will not be used to enhance violations of human rights, Danske Bank follows all relevant sanctions, including EU, UN, UK and US financial sanctions. This implies that Danske Bank will not engage in transactions involving entities identified by HMS or OFAC to be trading in arms with countries subject to a UN arms embargo. Additionally, Danske Bank will not participate in transactions where we believe the principles of the UN Arms Trade Treaty are not met. In practice, our internal ESG experts will assess the risk that arms will be used to facilitate serious violations of international humanitarian law.

3. Implementation

4. Standards and principles
Furthermore, for the listed companies we invest in, we perform a screening in collaboration with our screening and research partners to make sure that they act in line with the following international principles and conventions:

- Convention on the Prohibition of the Use, Stockpiling, Production and Transfer of Anti-Personnel Mines and on their Destruction [The Ottawa Treaty] 8
- Biological Weapons Convention 9
- Chemical Weapons Convention 10
- Convention on Cluster Munitions 11
