Comment on functional inspection of Danske Bank A/S's quality-improving services

“We have updated our customer information so that it is even more clear now that customers pay agency commissions even if they make use of our quality-improving services only to some degree or not at all. This means that we are now in compliance with the first order.

At the same time, we have reviewed the documentation of how agency commissions increase the quality of investment services provided to customers and planned relevant measures in the near future,” says Kerstin Lysholm, Head of Investment Products and Offerings.
